WASHINGTON, JULY 6, 1888.

THE SPEAKER OF THE British House of Commons occupies one of the most exalted positions in the Government of Great Britain. If the Speaker should develop an infirmity, the result of an insatiable appetite, at times, for excessive potations, the English people would be shocked. If during these periodical indulgences he should become incapacitated for the discharge of the duties of his great trust, the people of the English Empire would demand his removal, no matter how eminent, able or popular the high officer of the government might be when in full command of his exalted abilities. Why should the people of any country demand less under similar circumstances? The interests, welfare and progress of a great nation are more important than personal considerations for any one man, no matter how prominent his official position, who in any way dis qualifies himself from performing his official duties and hinders and delays

"I cannot arrown to run for Congress." said a prominent Democrat a few days ago. "It is not because of the assessments imposed by the political organizations," he added, "but the office is not worth anything. Of course you get your salary, but with the as-sessments deducted it leaves you only $2,500 for two years' work. That doesn't pay, and there are no pickings in Congress. I would rather be a New York State Senator. There it is estimated that the office is worth about $33,000 a year."-[New York Commercial Advertiser.

This accounts for two things that have no doubt created more or less surprise these later years; first-that as a rule New York sends more rogues to Albany than she does to Washington; and again, present company of course excepted, that the Congressional delegation from New York does not loom up at the Capitol with that exalted supereminence of statesmanship which might naturally be expected from the Empire State. There are bright and breezy men among the thirty-four, always; and, as a rule, they are good, working ness at Albany can hardly be induced | his relief. so it is not strange no "pickings," that men of first-class abilities, to whom so many avenues of wealth distinction and usefulness are open elsewhere, should be averse to scrambling for legislative honors at the seat of government that carry with them such a pittance of compensation.

But what shall be thought of the Civil Service Reform system that after all its boasted progress has yet accomplished so little towards revolutionizing political methods, that more than half of a New York Congressman's salary is consumed in partisan assessments of one kind and another, while a State Senatorship is worth more than any other office in the country, with the single exception of the President's?

Two sixty-two round watermelon have been sent from Georgia to Mrs. Cleveland. Some Republican down there trying to "remove" the President, we'll wager a doctor's bill.

FRANCIS MURPHY, the temperance apostle, says it is "time for us all to quit talking temperance and start drinking liquor" when it is made a penal offense to sell milk on Sunday The remark was provoked by the arrest of a man in Pittsburg for such a violation of the Sunday law, and it was accompanied by another much more pertinent and forcible remark that there are always some intemperate temperance people who are working to injure the real cause of temper ance." If this species of legislation is to be kept up he says that arrangements should be made for furnishing the people with milk, lemonade, and other refreshing beverages on Sunday free of charge. He is right. The species of self-righteousness that enacts itself into ordinances to make Sunday the least enjoyable day of the week to the working poor, who have no other day to enjoy, knows neither gospel nor reason, and it is doing more to breed discontent and contempt for law than even intemperance

THE SOCIETY OF Christian Endeavor is holding its annual convention in Chicago. It has nothing to do with the political campaign.

THE NEW YORK Press, which cannot be accused of any Democratic bias in Its opinions, raps the Senate Judicimry Committee over the knuckle pretty smartly when it says that its report of Mr. Fuller's nomination for Chief Justice without recommendation "may be set down merely to some unimportant partisan motive." The nomination it considers an eminently fit one and the Senate should confirm it without further delay. The fact that Mr. Cullom now seeks to unsay what he first said in Mr. Fuller's favor, should have no weight whatever. Both of the Illinois Senators assured the President of the propriety of the appointment and the latter was warranted in being governed, to some extent, by their opinion in the matter. It is certainly very strange that Mr. Cullom should have now, for the first time, dicovered any serious flaw in Mr. Fuller's "war record," after a near acquaintance with him for years. while other prominent Illinois Republicans, who were first and loudest to approve the appointment, find no cause to disapprove it. THE UNITED STATES steamship Enterprise celebrated the Fourth of July by going ashore on the rocks in the harbor of Christiania, Norway but the Norwegian navy came gal lantly to the rescue and got her off without serious damage.

THE PRESIDENT should receive vote of thanks from the G. A. R. and every honest soldier or his beneficiary for the stand he takes on pension legis lation and the opinion he expresses ir his last veto message with reference thereto. The pension roll should be a roll of honor, and not a tabulated statement of how much it costs National legislators for votes to secure their election.

The Rochesten Union says "Keep petticeats out of politics." We'll agree to do the best we can in that line if the Union will do as much to keep politics out of petticoats. 'Rah for Belva Lockwood!

egislation will not settle the race problem of the South, and that statute laws cannot reach where natural laws are supreme." When Mr. Murat Halstead, Governor Foraker and several other unanimous Republican patriots are informed of this they will paw the air in frenzy and demand that Steve be read out of the party as a traitor.

WE WOULD SUGGEST to the President that in pursuance of strict civil service regulations the venerable father-in law of General Ben. Harrison be unceremoniously bounced from his position in the Pension Office. Is it not "offensive partisanship" for a man to have a son-in-law running for the the legislative requirements of the Presidency on an opposition ticket?

EIGHTY-SEVEN Massachusetts edtors were banquetted at Congress Hall, Saratoga, last night, and every man in the lot made a speech. The sad event cast a gloom over the entire community.

THE LONDON Daily News says certain American reformers are endeavoring to raise the position of Vice-President in the esteem of the people and are taking the first step by suggesting the raising of the salary. The News does not apparently know the spirit of our people. What they want is office first and salary afterward. The ranks of strikers in this country are not recruited from the great body of office-seekers.

Talmage's Brooklyn congregation will sail for Europe July 14, for a seven weeks' tour. The trip will cost each person about $300. It is gossip in New York that the daughter of a prominent judge of that city is engaged to be married to the Irish member of Parliament, Sir Thomas Grat-tan Esmonde. THE NEW YORK Mail and Express says that in Paris the Brother Jonathan colony continues to be divided against itself, and that some of the social quarrels are very pretty to look at. AN OFFICIAL ESTIMATE made by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company shows that upwards of 9,000,000 baskets of peaches will be shipped over the several divisions of that road this season.

PEACE AND LOVE.

BY CATHADAN PHILLIPS WILLIAMS. If Peace and Love were one!

i' why, beneath the changing sky, hen Love pursues, doth fair Peace fly, d at the partal of the heart hen young Love knocks, doth Peace de part— Beneath the changing sky;

Yet if we 'twixt the twain must choose, if either Feace or Love must lose. Shall we not cry, "Come, Love, with Pain, Though never Feace return again".

If 'twixt the twain we choose?

Alas' not till Life sighs. "Adleu!"
Not till the red rose bloom is through,
Comes Peace to lie upon Love's breast,
With roses white to crown his rest—
Not till Life sighs, "Adleu!"

Rot till Life sighs, "Adleu!"
